Page 2 12 Chapter 1 Getting Started What's Next After you plug in AirPort Express, you use AirPort Utility to set it up to work with your Internet connection, stereo, USB printer, or existing network. See "Using AirPort Express" on page 13 for examples of all the ways you can use AirPort Express, and information about how to set up your wireless network. Then see "Setting Up Your AirPort Express" on page 21 to find out more about the setup process. Flashing amber AirPort Express cannot establish a connection to the network or the Internet, or is encountering a problem. Make sure you have installed AirPort Utility and use it to get information about what might cause the status light to flash amber. See "If Your AirPort Express Status Light Flashes Amber" on page 32. Page 3 12 2 Using AirPort Express In this chapter you'll find explanations of the different ways you can use AirPort Express. This chapter gives examples of how your setup might look, depending on how you use AirPort Express. It also gives a brief explanation of what you need to do to get your AirPort Express network up and running quickly. Using AirPort Express with Your Broadband Internet Service When you set up AirPort Express to provide network and Internet access, Macintosh computers with AirPort and AirPort Extreme Cards, and 802.11a, 802.11b, 802.11g, or 802.11n wireless computers can access the wireless AirPort network to share files, play games, and use Internet applications such as web browsers and email applications. Page 4 14 Chapter 2 Using AirPort Express What It Looks Like How to Set It Up 1 Connect your DSL or cable modem to your AirPort Express using the Ethernet (G) port. 2 Use AirPort Utility to create a new network. (See "Setting Up Your AirPort Express" on page 21 for more information.) Computers using AirPort and computers using other wireless cards or adapters connect to the Internet through AirPort Express. Wireless computers communicate with each other through AirPort Express. DSL or cable modem Ethernet port to Internet G Page 5 Chapter 2 Using AirPort Express 15 Using AirPort Express on an Existing Wireless Network and Stream Music to Powered Speakers or Your Home Stereo You can also connect AirPort Express as a client to an existing wireless network. Connect AirPort Express to your stereo or powered speakers and use iTunes to play music from iTunes. Connecting AirPort Express to your existing network allows you to place AirPort Express in another room, within range of your network. What It Looks Like Poweredspeakers DSL or cable modem to Internet Line Out port AirPort Extreme Base Station to Ethernet port Page 6 16 Chapter 2 Using AirPort Express How to Set It Up 1 Connect your AirPort Express to your home stereo or powered speakers using a digital fiber optic cable, analog mini-stereo-to-dual-RCA cable, or mini-stereo to mini-stereo cable (depending on what type of connectors your stereo uses) connected to the stereo mini-jack (-). Note: You cannot use USB speakers with AirPort Express. Use powered speakers with a stereo mini-jack connector. 2 To join the wireless network, use the AirPort status menu in the menu bar on a Macintosh. On a Windows computer, hold the pointer over the wireless connection icon until you see your AirPort network name (SSID), and choose it from the list if there are multiple networks available. Enter the network password if necessary. 3 Open iTunes on your computer and choose your stereo or speakers from the speakers pop-up menu in the lower-right corner of the iTunes window. You can stream iTunes music to more than one AirPort Express at a time by choosing Multiple Speakers from the speakers pop-up menu. Wireless computers within range of AirPort Express can wirelessly stream music to it using iTunes 4.6 or later. Only one computer at a time can stream music to AirPort Express. Do not connect AirPort Express to the phono jack on your stereo. Page 7 Chapter 2 Using AirPort Express 17 Using AirPort Express to Share a USB Printer When you connect a USB printer to your AirPort Express, all of the computers on the wireless network can print to it. What It Looks Like DSL or cable modem to Internet to USB port Ethernet port Line Out port G Powered speakers Page 8 18 Chapter 2 Using AirPort Express How to Set It Up 1 Connect the printer to the AirPort Express USB (d) port using a USB cable. 2 Use AirPort Utility to create a new network or join an existing one. (See "Setting Up Your AirPort Express" on page 21.) Wireless computers can print to the printer using Mac OS X v10.2.7 or later, or Windows Vista or Windows XP. To use the printer with a computer using Mac OS X v10.3 or v10.4: 1 Open Printer Setup Utility (located in the Utilities folder in the Applications folder). 2 Select the printer from the list. If the printer is not in the list, click Add, choose Bonjour from the pop-up menu, and then select the printer from the list. To use a printer with a computer using Mac OS X v10.5: 1 Choose Apple > System Preferences, and then click Print & Fax. 2 Select the printer in the list. If the name of the printer isn't in the list, click Add (+) at the bottom of the list and then select the printer you want to use. To use the printer with a Windows computer: 1 Install Bonjour for Windows from the CD that came with your AirPort Express. 2 Follow the onscreen instructions to connect your printer. Page 9 Chapter 2 Using AirPort Express 19 Optional Audio Cable and Power Cord You can purchase the optional AirPort Express Stereo Connection Kit to connect your AirPort Express to your home stereo or powered speakers. The kit includes analog mini-stereo-to-dual-RCA connectors, a Toslink digital fiber optic cable, and a power cord. A Connect the analog cable to your home stereo if it uses standard analog cables. A Connect the digital fiber optic cable if your stereo has a digital Toslink port. A Connect the power cord if you are setting up your AirPort Express away from a power outlet. AirPort Express provides simultaneous dual-band wireless 802.11n Wi-Fi networking. When you set up your AirPort Express Base Station, it creates two high-speed Wi-Fi networks: AA A 2.4 gigahertz (GHz) network for 802.11b, 802.11g, and 802.11n devices, such as iPhone, iPod touch, and older computers AA A 5 GHz network for 802.11n and 802.11a devices, such as newer computers, iPad, and Apple TV Your wireless devices join whichever network provides the best performance and compatibility. You can use AirPort Express to share your Internet connection with all the wireless computers and other devices on your network, play music on your home stereo, share a network printer, and connect to other devices. Your AirPort Express comes with AirPlay, an easy way to play iTunes music through remote speakers from your computer, or from an iOS device, such as an iPad, iPhone, or iPod Touch. With AirPort Express, you can: AA Create a password-protected wireless home network, and then connect to the Internet and share the connection with computers and other wireless devices, such as iPad, iPhone, and Apple TV you can also share files among computers connected to the network. AA Create a guest network, with or without password protection, to give wireless Internet access to friends and visitors. Devices that connect to the network only have access to the Internet. AA Connect your AirPort Express to your Ethernet network. Wireless-equipped Mac and Windows computers, and other wireless devices can then access the network without being connected by a cable. AA Connect a USB or Ethernet device, such as a printer, to your AirPort Express. All of the computers on the AirPort network can access the device. AA Connect a self-powered USB hard disk to your AirPort Express. All of the computers on the AirPort network can access the information on the hard disk. AA Connect a USB hub to your AirPort Express, and then connect multiple USB devices, such as printers or hard disks. All of the computers on the AirPort network can access those devices. AA Connect your stereo or powered speakers to your AirPort Express, and then use AirPlay to play iTunes music from any computer or iOS device. 6 Chapter 1 Getting Started AirPort Express has five ports on the back: AA A 10/100Base-T Ethernet Wide Area Network (WAN) port (
